

Strategic Recruitment Partnership with Executive Integrity and GASLOG

GASLOG

GASLOG, a prominent player in the liquefied natural gas (LNG) sector, embarked on a pioneering journey to establish a new energy gateway in Greece and Southeastern Europe, contributing significantly to regional energy security. To accomplish this transformative vision, GASLOG engaged in a crucial large-scale FSRU conversion project and required multiple roles in ship operations excellence to support their expanding fleet. Teaming up exclusively with Executive Integrity, GASLOG forged a strategic recruitment partnership aimed at identifying innovative leaders to drive their growth.

GASLOG's Hiring Challenges

Embarking on a visionary project to establish a new energy gateway in Greece and Southeastern Europe, GASLOG faced multiple recruitment challenges.

Their efforts to execute a large-scale FSRU conversion project and elevate their fleet operations demanded leaders with a unique blend of expertise, spanning FSRU conversions, operational excellence, and technical proficiency. However, the scarcity of professionals possessing this skill set, coupled with the competitive landscape of the LNG industry, posed difficult obstacles to finding the right talent.

Recognising the intricacies of their requirements and the need for a strategic recruitment approach, GASLOG turned to Executive Integrity. This recruitment partnership aimed to harness Executive Integrity's deep LNG industry insights, expansive talent network, and proven track record in delivering tailored solutions to identify transformative leaders capable of driving GASLOG's ambitious growth aspirations.

Working with Executive Integrity was a win on all points. They took the time to understand the hard and soft requirements and kept in touch with us in the right way.

Their online platform enabled the process and was user friendly. The pre-recorded responses to our key interview questions provided excellent assessment insight and allowed us to do so at our own time.

Executive Integrity are real search partners that understood what was important to us and delivered.
